Pratt Institute is now known for its focus on art and design, but Charles Pratt’s initial intention for the school was to create an institution where students of all races, genders, and economic backgrounds could learn a variety of trades and keep up with Brooklyn’s shift from a rural to an industrial economy.

To read more, visit this blog post: "From Cookery and Homemaking to Restaurant Management and Dietetics: Food Sciences at Pratt Institute"
Work is ramping up to migrate to ReShare! The ReShare Implementers Group has completed templates for Index Data, and Innovative has begun working with teams at each library to begin the exit from INN-Reach. March 11 will be the last day that items can be requested through the CNY INN-Reach catalog. The catalog will be available until June 15 with e-book records accessible via the CNY catalog through May 31. Libraries can individually decide whether or not to continue linking to the CNY catalog once requesting is stopped.

As we prepare to go-live with ReShare, please know that:

- E-books will not be in the ReShare shared index, so all member libraries should make CNY e-book records available in their catalogs/discovery by May 31 before the INN-Reach catalog is disconnected.

- Center for Research Libraries (CRL) records will not be included in the ReShare shared index. Members of CRL should contact CRL to make alternative plans for your patrons to access and request CRL materials.

Thank you to those that completed the Community Engagement Committee’s survey. You will find information about an assessment event in this issue, and we will be sending out information about a virtual Collaboration Day Conference soon!

Collecting metrics should be more than an exercise. Evaluating what we collect (or don’t) and why allows us to set priorities, inform decisions, improve library services, and tell the library’s story. I will share how we evaluate our program at the USMA Library and lessons learned from this process.

Heather Seminelli is the Assistant Director for Communications and Assessment at the U.S. Military Academy Library, West Point, New York. She is responsible for assessing user-centered services for the benefit of students, faculty, and staff; and telling the library’s story. Before becoming a librarian, she served in the Army, assessing training and flying UH-60 Blackhawk helicopters. She is working toward her Ed.D. in Leadership and Learning in Organizations from Vanderbilt University and earned her MSLIS from Pratt School of Information.

APRIL 1 @ 2:00PM

REGISTER
The James A. Cannavino Library at Marist College is currently seeking a Library Assistant to fulfill duties primarily associated with Public Services and Circulation. These duties will include: coverage of a public-facing desk; participating in the hiring, training, scheduling and oversight of student employees; and providing good customer service to library patrons including students, faculty and other members of the Marist community.

The schedule for this position is: Tuesday – Saturday 9:30 AM - 6:00 PM, Evening, holiday or weekend work required as needed.

For more information and to apply, click here.

Marist

Adelphi’s new Outreach and Promotion Librarian will be responsible for coordinating outreach and marketing efforts, developing scholarly library events, and organizing and managing projects, activities, and initiatives designed to promote the services, resources, and collections of Adelphi University Libraries. The Outreach and Promotion Librarian also has an active role in the Adelphi University Libraries’ research and instruction services and instruction program, providing research assistance to patrons and serving as liaison to campus academic programs, assuming teaching, outreach and collection development responsibilities.

For more information and to apply, click here.